CAN THOSE WHO LIBEL A RACE OR CREED BE PUNISHED?

Mr. Louis Marshall, the great defender of Jewish rights and internationally known constitutional lawyer, concludes a lucidly clear article in which he reviews the now infamous Rosenbluth case with the following:

> "But there is an even more sordid aspect of this case which should not be overlooked. There lives in Michigan one Henry Ford, who for several years past has been amusing himself by publishing a personal organ known as The Dearborn Independent, which likewise bears the caption, 'The Ford International Weekly.' Learning that Rosenbluth is a Jew, that damning fact was enough. For weeks and months Ford's columns were filled with cunningly contrived appeals to passion and prejudice, with attacks upon those who ventured to stand at the side of the man who had been unjustly accused of a heinous crime. Felix M. Warburg and Colonel Herbert H. Lehman, who were familiar with the social service work of Rosenbluth, and therefore felt that it would be impossible for him to commit such a crime as that laid at his door, went upon his bail bond. As a result their names were dragged into The Dearborn Independent and they were accused of being members of a Jewish conspiracy to cheat the gallows. Rosenbluth's counsel, who likewise happened to be Jews, and who came to his rescue as a matter of simple justice in recognition of their oaths of office, were showered with insults. Senator Calder, Mr. Hoover, Miss Davis, Professor Chapman of Yale University, Mr. Selden and other good citizens who came forward to give to Rosenbluth his due, were denounced, not only as malefactors, but as the tools of a Jewish conspiracy.
> "The articles of Ford's scrivener made an outcry of promise that astounding disclosures would be made upon the trial. Will Ford now make a retraction? Will he do anything to rehabilitate the victim of his savage and baseless attacks? A more important question, however, arises, and that is, to what extent a man richer than Croesus may shelter himself behind a corporation which is his creature and may thereby be enabled with impunity to spread what charges he will, instead of being brought to the bar of justice."

The case of Rosenbluth has dragged in the courts of the United States since 1922. We do not wish to reiterate the lurid details of this case which parallels the Dreyfus case as closely as American conditions will allow. Politicians and other powerful interests sought to exploit the case for their own selfish ends. It cost the U.S.A. Federal Government over $200,000 and two years of prosecution and persecution to discover the innocence of Capt. Rosenbluth, in spite of the fact that already in 1922 the Attorney-General of the county in which Major Kronkhiti's death had occurred had cleared Capt. Rosenbluth of all guilt.

We are, however, more particularly concerned with the rhetorical question that Mr. Marshall raises in the conclusion of this article, and its implications.

Why is it that an individual whose character is maligned and libelled has redress in the courts against his maligners and libellers, whereas a whole people or a creed, when insulted and falsely libelled has not the same opportunity to secure justice? I am not a lawyer but an ethical teacher, yet I feel that there is something radically wrong and unfair about such a state of affairs.

There is recourse to the newspapers and the public platform, some will say, and the race or creed attacked can use these media to refute the libellous charges. But this is not always possible The newspapers are ofttimes the private property of certain powerful interests who are either themselves responsible for the attack, or otherwise unwilling to antagonize the interests that are the maligners. In the United States Henry Ford with his millions starts a newspaper, underwrites its large yearly deficit, hires able writers to prostitute their talents, employs clever lawyers to instruct his editors to doctor the articles so that they are libel-proof, and compels his agents and employees all over the country to purchase and push the paper, and all of it to malign the Jew. We imagine that the next victim of his stupidity and cupidity will be the Catholic or the Negro. Yet Henry Ford, as Mr. Marshall states, richer than Croesus, may under the laws of the United States, shelter himself behind a corporation which is his creature, and thereby is enabled with impunity to spread what charges he will, instead of being brought to the bar of justice for libel.

We believe that there are some European countries where the law is different and where corporations and individuals can be held accountable for libellous attacks on a group, even as they can when slandering an individual. The law on this side should be the same.

Men like Henry Ford and the K.K.K. are a menace to their country. They stir up racial and religious hatred and prejudice, which is more dangerous to a country than a prairie fire or an earthquake. They poison the minds of the people, which is worse than poisoning the waters in the public reservoirs. It has brought about a state of affairs in some places in the United States which is positively deplorable and has led to race riots.

There is no other way to stop the spewing out of this sort of propaganda that is poisoning the well springs of public opinion, except by adopting a law that will make it criminal libel to malign a whole race or creed.

Under the present law in Canada, for example, any member of a community when libelled can file a personal charge for libel, yet the group as a whole to which he belongs, when libelled has no such power, excepting if every member of the group files a personal claim for libel against his maligner. The utter impracticability for a group as widespread as the Jews or Catholics or as numerous accomplishing such a thing when attacked is evident on the face of it. The enemies of the Jews know this and therefore they attack with impunity and without reserve.

But justice demands that the rights of a race or creed should be as inviolable as those of an individual.

I wonder how long it will yet be before countries and governments will come to realize that not only justice but public security demand the passing of a law against the libelling of a whole race or creed?

In its usual humour the Jewish press is more than glad to chronicle the generosity of men whose ideas, dreams, imagination and fortune make possible institutions and bequests that ease the burden of life for the poor and unfortunate. It is, therefore, with real shock that one comes upon Israel's Messenger and what its editor has to say about the will of Hector William Sassoon.

Young Sassoon died in London last November at the age of 32. For several years he had been in China in charge of the E. D. Sassoon & Company branch office at Hong Kong. He left an estate valued at one million pounds within the jurisdiction of the Hong Kong courts. In a codicil to his will the trustees were instructed to set aside 500,000 rupees from the residuary estate and invest separately this sum, "the income to be distributed in such manner and in such countries as are deemed advisable, to assist persons found guilty of first offences against the law of the land; and also to assist unmarried mothers and illegitimate children, and generally to provide for the welfare of the children."

This codicil was an act of courage on the part of a man evidently impressed with the discrepancies between law and justice and the intolerable attitude of society toward unmarried mothers and children born out of wedlock. It is the sort of deed that links men together for it is the sort of deed that all enlightened people wish to do for the human family before they die. It means helping the helpless, binding up the wounds of outcasts. It shows Sassoon to have been a benefactor to mankind, too broad, too human to be limited by the narrower restrictions placed by race, nationality and religion. He must have been gentle and kind; free, fair and generous-minded.

What Israel's Messenger, printed in Shanghai, China, and edited by one N. E. B. Ezra, thinks of the Sassoon will and what it printed about the will makes a blot upon Jewish journalism and describes what manner of man the editor is. In an editorial headed "A Fantastic Will," Ezra says: "This unique will is likely to create derision in some quarters. It, however, goes to illustrate the mentality of the man who conceived it and put his signature to it. The deceased was not a conforming Jew. He stood for assimilation and married a non-Jewess. It is, therefore, not surprising to see that he had no thought for the poor of his own race, nor Eretz Yisrael which cries for the redemption of her soil from the blight of the ages and the restoration of Jewish manhood and nationhood; he thought most of the bastards and the criminals! Alas, for the degeneracy of our age and the tragedy of Jewish life in the Diaspora!"

Fortunately such writing and such viewpoint are rarely seen in Jewish papers and such a circumscribed mind is seldom revealed among the writers. "It goes to illustrate the mentality of the man who conceived it and put his signature to it." It is inhuman and vulgar enough to be struck from the record.

Having decided in favour of the Ontario Temperance Act as against the proposal to establish government control of the sale of liquor, the province of Ontario remains, in the august company of the United States, bone dry; unofficially inundated. The church people are happy because it is impossible for men to buy liquor openly even under the vigilant auspices of the government. The bootleggers rejoice that it is possible to sell liquor surreptitiously. The government meantime will continue to be faced with the costly and intricate business of enforcing a law which grows more unpopular with age. For about 300,000 more people voted against the O.T.A. in the plebiscite last week than in the referendum of October, 1919, and although it is still the law and must be enforced only about 52 per cent. of the voters are its backers.

The fate of the prohibition law in Ontario as in the United States is a harsh one. It has been a failure and will be a failure until the day it dies, not only by the neglect of opponents but particularly through the feeble loyalty of the very people who have voted for it. Men seem to feel no sense of guilt in violating it although it is law duly established by a majority of the people. Men seem to feel no repugnance toward other violators as they would toward murderers or incestuous people.

The law says that it is wrong to sell and transport intoxicating liquor as a beverage but it can hardly make itself heard for the laugh that arises even from the orderly and law-abiding. Poking fun at the prohibition law, friends fall away from it because they feel at heart that any law is impudent and wrong whose function is to establish arbitrary restraint, to limit personal conduct, to curtail personal freedom. The sentiment is growing that the prohibition law is wrong because it tries to prohibit something that in itself is no sin: the sale of intoxicating liquor as a beverage. This feeling and one of impatience with a law which is an absurd, expensive and unnecessary annoyance will eventually sign the death warrant for the O.T.A.

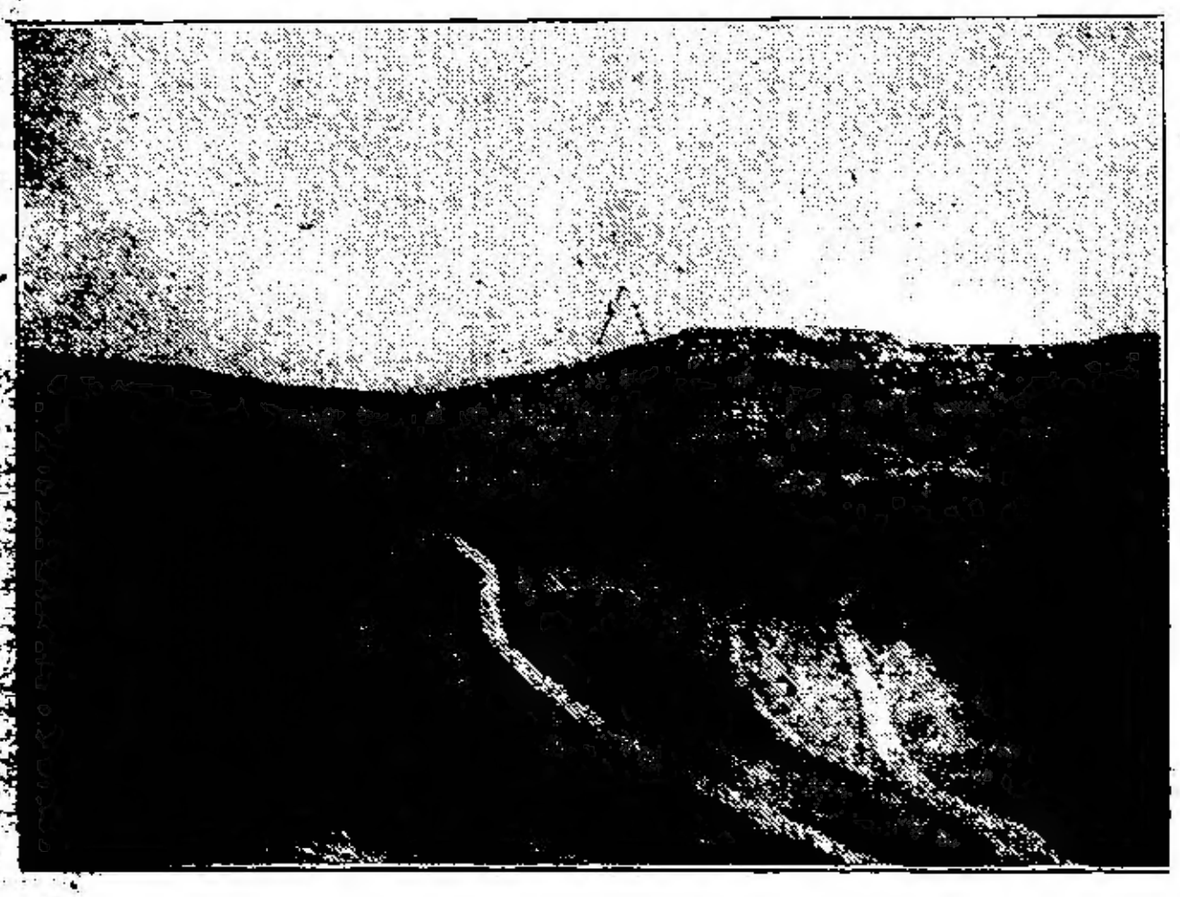
Why the Establishment of a Homeland for Jews Is Assured

Keren Hayesod Activities Here and There

Mrs. Marguerite Harrison is the best-known of all American newspaperwomen, and has visited all parts of the world for leading American newspapers and magazines. Twice in Russia she was arrested by the Soviet and kept in jail for many months, her imprisonment causing a world-wide sensation.

"When I saw the Jewish refugees throughout Europe, trudging from one place to another, crowding the ports, knowing not whither to go, or where the vagaries of a government would send them next, I realized what a tremendous problem this was and how urgent was the need of a quick solution. And when America closed its doors to further immigration, the problem assumed such critical proportions that Palestine seemed the one and only solution for this colossal tragedy of a people.

"So I view Keren Hayesod as a great rehabilitation movement which would save millions of a race, with no place else to go. And now that I have been to Palestine, have seen what the Jews have accomplished there in so short a time, under such terrific obstacles, I am more convinced than ever that Palestine is the one hope of the Jewish people. It is to me a tremendous philanthropic movement, with vast cultural possibilities, which should grip the imagination of the world."



WHERE AUTOS WHIRR ALONG

Upper Galilee, scene of extensive Jewish colonization work, is covered by a network of remarkably made roads, built by the Jewish pioneers. The photograph, taken by Rabbi Elias Margolis, shows how these roads traverse the country making all the colonies and cities accessible by automobiles and motor-bus lines.

Toronto Keren Hayesod Campaign

Nov. 9th to 12th, 1924

The Jewish people are at the threshold of the establishment of a homeland in Palestine.

The Keren Hayesod appeal is made to the Jewish conscience.

No Jew worthy of the name should at this solemn moment fail to contribute his share towards the upbuilding of Palestine.

Are you one of those shirking their duty towards their people?

Are you one of those holding back the great work of rebuilding Eretz Yisroel?

Do you realize that Keren Hayesod is the only solution for the helpless, wandering Jewish refugees?

Do you realize that the immigration QUOTA for Palestine will be as big as YOU make it?

Dare you shirk your duty to your own people?

WHAT IS YOUR ANSWER?

Educators and psychologists are watching the mental processes, reactions and development of Arthur Gottesman, ten years old, who has been admitted to Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, Ga., after tests which showed his mentality to be that of a nineteen-year-old student. While he has been admitted as a freshman, he will not be acknowledged as a regular matriculate until further tests have made it clear that he can carry the course. He is taking the full freshman courses in English, history, economics, French, German and Bible. The boy is not a "book-worm." He enjoys athletics and boyish games and has the height and weight of a normal ten-year old boy.

It is reported that Mr. Robert Stricker will resign from the presidency of the Austrian Zionist Federation and possibly also from the Actions Committee, of which he is vice-president, in consequence of his opposition to the plans of the Zionist Executive for the Jewish Agency.

Rabbi Julius Reach recently passed away in Prague, where he was Rabbi of the Maisel synagogue, a member of the Jewish National Council of Czecho-Slovakia and President of the Prague Zionist Federation. He was a descendant of one of the oldest Jewish families of Prague and was held in high esteem by the Prague community.

Who Heads the List?

Those who lead in any project have a greater responsibility than those who follow.

If your name is the first one on the Federation for Community Service Subscription List, a serious responsibility rests upon you — because everyone else whose names follow will be looking to see what you gave.

Make sure that the amount you put opposite your name is as much as you justifiably should give. Keep in mind those unfortunates who have no jobs or who are injured, stricken and sick, and unable to do a man's day's work.

You, if you head the list, do what you can. Split your contribution into monthly instalments, if you like. But give, and get others to give, for the 47 welfare institutions in the Federation for Community Service.

REVIEW JUNIOR SECTION:

I would like to join the Cousin Family of the CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW.

My name is .....

I live at.....

I am ..... years of age.

Come one! Come all! Let's have lots and lots and lots of new cousins. Ye Maker of Limericks says he'll write a limerick especially for every new cousin. And though I say it as shouldn't, Ye Maker of Limericks certainly can write pomes! (You'll note I said "pomes" and not "poems"—there is a difference!)

We have decided to make this a "different" competition . . . . . and to let you choose your own subject. There will be prizes for the best entries. There are absolutely no rules, except the usual ones that are observed in writing to us. You may write a story, an essay, a poem, a comedy, a tragedy (I almost said, a melodrama!), a play, a thesis — what you will -and each will be judged on its own merits, with prizes for the best. So, cousins mine, you have carte blanche; choose your own subject and your own medium for expression, and mail us the result AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. Everybody welcome.

Cousin David.

Dear Cousins:

I have told you so much about myself in my letters, that you all know how fond I am of books. Have I ever told you, though, about books that are even nicer (in a way) than story books? I mean books of paintings, etchings, lithographs and the like. I saw a lovely book of that kind, one day this week, in the Young Judaean Library. How many of you, I wonder, are well acquainted with the big and small, fat and thin volumes on the shelves of the Zionist and Young Judaean Libraries? You're missing a lot if you're not! My advice is to get an introduction soon. One doesn't have to stand on ceremony, you know. That's the nicest thing about books. You can spend as short or as long a time as you like with them, and when you put them down, they don't "talk back." Imagine if we did it to people! 'Course some people are the understanding kind, but there aren't many people that one can telephone and speak to thusly: "It's 7.30 now, but I'm not going out until 8. Will you come and talk to me for half an hour, and then when I'm ready to go, I'll just be off?" . . . . However, I'm off the track. I want to get back to that book of lithographs. It contained several copies of paintings by Stanislaus Bender, who was born in Lodz in 1882, and who studied at the Academie Julien in Paris for a number of years before leaving for four years in Munich at the Academy of Art. His studies are for the most part of the Ghetto of the town where he lived. They are rich but sombre in colouring, even as they are deep and glowing in their pathos and humour. There is one called "The Dispute," which shows two learned students of the Law arguing over a bit of Talmudic lore. The one who is arguing enthusiastically with burning eyes has just about convinced the other, who is on the very point of waiving his interpretation of that particular bit of law. There are three others that are sympathetic studies of the Jew in Synagogue. "Silent Prayer" is a beautiful painting of three venerable old rabbis in prayer and meditation; "Sacred Work" depicts the careful task of mending a tallis; and "A Rabbi" is lovely in its sweet, holy message . . . . But, alas! it is not enough to tell of pictures. I would prefer to have you sitting about me in a semi-circle, so that we could all look and talk together. (Though talking together would make a lot of noise, wouldn't it?)

Howsomever for the nonce, fare thee well, my cousins.

JUDITH.

POETS' CORNER

The Little Nation

I am the little nation, saith Israel,
I am the little one that was slain by the sword.

Two thousand years ago I was defeated, destroyed
By Rome, the victorious giant.

I was broken and scattered,
Persecuted and despised.

But I said: I am God's people.
The sword cannot destroy and the sword cannot create;
But the word of the Lord shall destroy and create.

The glory of Rome is past
And the empire of Rome is shattered,
But still I live.

I am greater to-day, I am younger to-day, I am stronger to-day
Than those who were born when I was old.

And the land whence I was driven calls to me,
And the nations call to me: Return!

What is gained by knowledge and justice is from everlasting to everlasting,
But what is gained by the sword shall be lost by the sword.

Jessie Sampter.

The New Flag

I beheld a white flag with a circle of red stars upon it,
And I asked: "What is this flag with the circle of red stars upon it?"
Then he said: "This is the flag of all the nations,
With a star for every nation;
Great or small, strong or weak;
Every nation has a star like every other,
And none can tell which nation has which star."

Jessie Sampter.

Dear Cousin Judith:

At this time of the year we Jewish folks are in the midst of Jewish holidays, both sad and glad ones. I am sending a little story of how candles affect me. I wonder if you feel the same way about them?

Wishing all cousins (the Maker of Limericks, too) a happy New Year, I remain,

A devoted cousin,
Fanny Fleming.

Dear Fanny:

It is nice to hear from you again, because you have been away from us for quite a long while. I am glad you feel that way about Palestine, our Homeland. Are you entering the Keren Hayesod competition? I imagine you could find quite a bit to say on the subject. Let's have it! And there is not very much time to lose, so jot your thought down on paper, "at once."

And more stories like this one, Fanny. Lots more!

Ye Maker of Limericks returns the compliments of the season—oh, so heartily.

Judith.

HUSSEIN'S ABDICATION ENCOURAGES ARABS

The abdication of King Hussein of the Hedjaz has given added courage to the Palestinian Arabs in their fight against the present Palestine administration and against the Zionists. A call for an urgent session of the Palestinian Arab Congress was issued by the Palestine Arab Executive last Friday. The Congress is to discuss the frequent purchases of land made by the Zionists, as well as the general political situation in Palestine and the neighbouring countries resulting from the war activities between the Hashimite family and Ibn Sahud, leader of the Wahabis.

The Mandates Commission of the League of Nations has received a memorandum from the Palestine Arab Executive in which the objection is raised against the policy of Sir Herbert Samuel, especially with regard to the question of Palestine immigration. The complaint is made that the High Commissioner is showing special favours to Jewish immigrants and makes it easy for them to acquire land in Palestine. It is believed that this memorandum is intended to prejudice the commission against the report which is about to be submitted to it by Sir Herbert Samuel.

The new Palestine Immigration Ordinance, against which the Arabs protest, provides for increased facilities for immigrants to enter the country, especially in the case of agricultural laborers and relatives of Palestine residents, including nephews and nieces under eighteen years of age. The minimum sum of money which "independent" immigrants have to produce on arriving in Palestine has been reduced from 500 pounds to 250 pounds.

ON THE TRAIL OF THE MOOSE

Have you followed the trail of the lordly moose through the flaming forests of the north and heard him call from the barrens, or tracked the fleet-footed deer over newly-fallen snow, with the keen wind in your face, while the trees cracked in the frost and the whole forest seemed vibrant with life? If you gave, you know the real joy of the Canadian autumn, which is never found on the city's streets nor in pulsing marts of commerce, but only in the clean open spaces and the fragrant silent woods.

Now that the leaves are turning crimson and gold you will begin to dream of the little hunting camp in the far north woods, of sparkling dewy dawns, tramps through the fallen leaves, blazing camp fires, wondrous autumn nights and the bed of balsam boughs, for there is no tonic in all the world for a tired brain and a weary soul like a hunting trip in the northern wilds.

Canadian National Railways tap the choicest of the solitary hunting districts of Northern Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, and if you are going off on a hunt this year go to the nearest ticket office and procure a copy of "Hunting in Canada," which contains full information as to the various districts, accommodation and guides. Then pack up your old rifle, sweater and togs and be off.

Nahum Sokolow, who was taken ill in a Berlin sanitarium, is improving, according to reports of his physicians.

With approximately 2,000 people participating, the new building of the Jewish Orphanage of Rhode Island was dedicated last Sunday afternoon and evening.

The Keren Hayesod committees have perfected their organizations during the past week and all is now in readiness for the 1924 campaign. The Junior Toronto campaign is working under the leadership of Mr. Rodman, national director of Young Judaea, who arrived in Toronto last Friday to give his attention to the Quarter-Mile of Quarters Fund. A Balfour Day mass meeting has been arranged for Sunday, November 2, and all his committees are at work.

The Women's Keren Hayesod Committee has adopted a quota of $10,000 for the Jewish women of Toronto and a committee has been organized under Mrs. M. Kates. The honorary president of the Toronto Women's campaign, Mrs. A. J. Freiman, of Ottawa, came here last Sunday for a conference with the presidents of the Jewish Women's organizations. Representatives of twenty-six women's organizations responded to the invitation of Mrs. Freiman, who called upon the women to pledge themselves to secure the participation of their organizations in the campaign. Mrs. Freiman said that with all other countries closed to them, the tens of thousands of homeless Jewish wanderers were looking to Palestine and that only there was the quota dependent on the Jews themselves. Mrs. Selick called on the women to unite in this Jewish world crisis to end the Jewish refugee problem. Mrs. Dunkelman said that the Keren Hayesod has since its inception three and a half years ago brought 35,000 Jews into Palestine and established them on the land as farmers, and that during the last two months, nearly six thousand chalutzim have entered Palestine. The women unanimously pledged themselves to secure teams of workers for the campaign and cash contributions from their organizations. The following organizations have already pledged at least $50 for the Keren Hayesod: The Berkeley Street Synagogue Auxiliary, Daughters of Israel, Sons of Jacob Ladies' Auxiliary.

The general Keren Hayesod campaign committee has been completing arrangements for the banquet in honour of Rabbi Silverman and Dr. Schmarya Levine next Wednesday evening, and the mass meeting at the Tivoli Theatre on Sunday, November 9, at which Dr. Levine and Morris Rottenberg will speak.

A meeting of the special names committee took place at the home of D. Dunkelman last Sunday morning. Mrs. A. J. Freiman, Dominion President of Hadassah, and member of this committee outlined her suggestions and plans for the committee and volunteered her services for the entire campaign. The following were present: Messrs. H. Clavir, S. Kronick, J. Kronick, S. Kaufman, F. Hutner, H. Greisman, I. Markus, M. Gelber, M. L. Willinsky and D. Dunkelman; Mesdames L. Kates, A. I. SHEA'S

Shea's has booked an all-feature act bill next week.

Wellington Cross is in Edgar Selwyn's playlet "Anything Might Happen," in four scenes, by four characters.

Ota Gygi is one of the really fine violinists on the vaudeville stage and the music of Schubert, Chopin and MacDowell is made the settings for the dances of Maryon Vadie and her corypheés.

The Hickey Brothers are comedians and eccentric dancers. Edith Clifford, singing comedienne, with Mabel Leonard at the piano, has a repertoire of new songs, and Bert Lahr and Mercedes offer a skit of mirth and melody they call, "What's the Idea?"

In the act of Carlton Emmy are eighteen Scotch terriers.

Jim Baggert and Rose Sheldon call their act "Enjoying Themselves." Bob Snell and Ernestine Vernon are an attractive duo, both premiere athletes. Shea's News Review completes the bill.

For November 10, Shea's bill will be headed by Adelaide and Hughes, American dancers, in a new dance series which includes "The Elopment of the Toys," written and produced by Adelaide and Hughes. Bobbie Roth assists at the piano. Blossom Seeley, with Bennie Fields, Bert Fiske and Warner Gault, will present a new song review, and Venita Gould will be seen in a new repertoire of impersonations.

Kendal, Byton and Slater have a comedy offering, "At the Studio," a moving picture episode, and Norma Terris, comedy billiardist. William Brack and Company, and others complete the show.

STANDARD THEATRE

At Standard Theatre, Friday evening, October 31, and Saturday matinee and November 1, Burstein's play, "When the Woman Pays," will be produced.

SADIE SHOENGOLD
Appearing this Season at the Standard Theatre.

EMPIRE THEATRE

About once in every ten years an epoch making event happens. In the realm of Columbia Burlesque such an event has transpired with the return to the fold of one who is universally admitted to be the greatest comedian burlesque has ever produced. This same comic is no other than the well-beloved funster, Billy Arlington, who appears at the Empire Theatre week of November 3 with the vehicle with which he was formerly associated, Jacobs & Jermon's "Golden Crook."

In inducing Mr. Arlington to forsake his lucrative Keith vaudeville contracts, Columbia Burlesque has made a master stroke. Arlington is without a doubt the most personable comedian on the stage, versatile musician and inimitable entertainer. He is being paid the largest salary ever given to one comedian in burlesque.

Naturally, with a star of Billy Arlington's magnitude, a highly superior cast has been signed to reflect his personality. Larry Clifford, a new comer, also from vaudeville, will play the role of a tramp opposite Billy, while Walter LaFoye, an exemplary straight man with a fine voice, is well fitted to his part, having played with Mr. Arlington, before he went to vaudeville.

Ede Mae, another prodigal, left burlesque for vaudeville, and returned to work with Mr. Arlington. She is a prima donna, very attractive and possessed of a good voice. Louise Wright is a blues singing ingenue. Dad Taylor, long associated with Arlington, both in vaudeville and in the old "Golden Crook," does a musical specialty with the star.

Earl and Marie Gates, also new to Columbia Burlesque, bring their Keith character singing and dancing act with them. Girlie Knight, another newcomer has been engaged as soubrette. Ray Yearwood, a character man, will be recalled for the excellent quality of his tenor voice.

There will be eight vaudeville acts, headed by Billy Arlington and Company, LaFoye and Wright, Eda Mae and Larry Clifford, Earl and Marie Gates in "steps"; the Pell Mell Trio, Louise Wright, Larry Clifford and the six Clifford Sisters, English acrobatic dancers.

A very costly production has been built for Mr. Arlington, and a chorus of pulchritude and grace completes a real credit to Columbia Burlesque.
